THE PINK REVOLUTION: D DAY ON V DAY

Valentine's Day ushers a wave of new politics against the Hindutva moral police

Amit Sengupta

If love's in the air, it's not really visible. But, like a cliché, it repeats itself relentlessly, breathlessly. In more ways than, one, it's a sign of the times, a Freudian slip if you wish, the unrequited longing for love, the insatiability of desire, the emptiness of easy emotions, of ritualistic unfulfilment. In the capital of India, though, there is a sensuous arrival of moist north winds from the Himalayas, where the snow is moving like a dream sequence. Post rain, the nip in the air reminds us of the absence of love, as much as the longing and presence of love. And like a character in a PD James novel, you can walk anonymous on lonely streets, looking for that crossroad when she will suddenly arrive and take you out for a drink to the nearest pub - near a fireplace maybe.

Pubs remind me of Mangalore and the mindless, masculine rabble rousers and goons of the Ram Sene etc, certainly an offshoot of the hydra-head Sangh Parivar of the Hindutva types. But pubs in the current post-spring scenario comes with a catch - the V Day: Valentine's Day.

Now we know too well, like the Mother's Day, or Father's Day, or Uncle and Aunty's Day, or the Sweetie-Cutie Doodle Doodle Puppy Poodle Day, the Valentine's Day has nothing to do with love or roses or spring or snow. First of all, these artificial 'Days' (what about nights?) never existed in the nomenclature of our festivals or rituals or annual landmarks, certainly not in the realm of our most private and intimate expressions of love or desire or longing. Not even in the school calendar of holidays, or like miraculous 'rainy days'. These are manufactured commodity fetishes celebrated by multinational and sundry local card companies, and various assorted gifts, flower-cartels, shopping malls, discos, hotels, restaurants and fast food joints. So much so that if a young stud doesn't choose to give an Archie card and a mushy candle-light dinner to his love-dove-babe on V Day, she might take offence. While the corporate industry and the 'lifestyle media' celebrates this culture trap, the most intimate emotions and private spaces of young minds and bodies get caught in this political economy of commercialised love.

Nothing eclectic or innocent about it. Love as a commodity. Love for sale. Buy one get two free or vice versa. Love to be consumed on a particular day. Love to be purchased in the nearest shop. Love in the marketplace. Love to be measured in the competitive value system of how much money you can spend on that babe you dig. While we all know that after all, a rose is a rose is a rose. And Be Mine Forever or Forget Me Not are more metaphors. Bitter realism. Sweet and sour realism. Hence, this 'I Love You' seems a bit too concocted and badly cooked, isn't it, like chicken chowmeen with paneer masala gravy and raw onions, cucumber and carrots, eaten with chopsticks.

This is where the pub syndrome enters. And the Valentine Day becomes an uncanny coincidence. The flip side is that the attack on the pub by the Taliban Hindutva gangsters have triggered a new wave of urban politics: the Valentine's Day has been turned upside down into large-scale protests against the fanatic moral police, which is basically anti-woman and anti-free love (and let's not even mention the 'F' word, or the debate on Free Sex or the Bra-burning feminist epoch in the West.)

Hardnews reports the flip side of this new politics is in ample display and this might turn the tables on all the puritanic senas, including the private goons of the Shiv Sena and Raj Thackerary's MNS. The All India SC/ST Federation and the Indian Justice Party led by Dalit leader Udit Raj and other women leaders have called for mass celebration of Valentine's Day at Jantar Mantar in Delhi. This is like showing a red flag to the bullish MNS/Shiv/Ram Sena, and miscellaneous BJP/RSS/VHP/Bajrang Dal outfits. (In Delhi, the Shiv Sena has split into another hardline group due to 'ideological' differences - how much more funny can it get!) The SC/ST Federation's woman leader, Sarika Singh, in a SMS and e-mail campaign, has warned that anybody who dares to oppose this celebration on Valentine's Day will be decisively attacked with shoes and chappals. That's interesting: You can actually spot the Bush-Zaidi shoe angle in that famous episode in Baghdad recently, celebrated all over the world. Besides, this is great picture possibility: Dalits celebrating love in the time of Hindutva, counter protests by Sena/VHP goons, and then they getting a good footwear thrashing by Dalit women as a grand public spectacle. Lovely!

Meanwhile, radical Left students' groups like the All India Students' Association (AISA - which runs the JNU Students' Union) have invited students from JNU, Jamia and elsewhere, writers', artists, poets, journalists, and of course young lovers, on the eve of Valentine's Day, to celebrate 'The Right to Love and Freedom to Live'. Arundhati Roy, among others, are going to read out poems and literature to celebrate the freedom to love and live under the Vivekananda Statue at Delhi University. Not bad you see - even the radical Left is out to subvert the 'capitalist' 'V Day' to cock a snook at the Hindutva moral police!

Meanwhile, the 'pink chaddi' campaign led by subversive, liberated and rather forthright urban women has already hit the 15,000 mark. There's even a debate going -- if this is truly a Gandhian campaign, it being so combative and not so shy or coy or blushing. So why should women be meant to be eternally shy and coy and blushing all the time, while men are supposed to be macho and patriarchal and worldly wise?

So here's wishing more power to the 'pink revolution', with or without frills, with or without the 'V'. This is where it should hurt the nickerwallahs most - the male, moronic misogynist, mobsters who attacked young girls in the pub in Mangalore.

Now I can truly say, without hesitation or despair:

True. Love's truly in the air.

A scam in the Delhi Development Authority spoils many people's dream of affordable housing.

A scam in the Delhi Development Authority spoils many people's dream of affordable housing.

EVERY year lakhs of people, most of them middle-class, queue up to buy flats that the Delhi Development Authority (DDA) sells by drawing lots. Last year was no different; the DDA got 5,67,000 applications for 5,238 flats under Housing Scheme 2008. The hopefuls now feel cheated after knowing that the allotment process could have been rigged.

Initial investigations point to a major scam in the allotment process. Emotions are running high following apprehensions that the allotments made by drawing lots on December 16, 2008, would be cancelled. Vikas Sadan, which houses the DDA office, has been witnessing rather unusual scenes for the past couple of weeks. Two different groups of people – the 'lucky' allottees and the others – have been sitting in two makeshift tents on either side of the building agitating for their respective demands. Both groups are, however, united in their protest against the apparent failure of the government in checking the alleged malpractice. According to the Delhi Police, a group of property dealers, bank agents, chartered accountants and government officials used their nexus to file fake applications first to buy the flats from the DDA and later sell them at higher prices. The plan went unhindered until a property dealer, Deepak Kumar, also a part of the group, decided to blow the whistle on it.

The Economic Offences Wing (EOW) of the Delhi Police has arrested five people, including M.L. Gautam, a retired DDA employee, Laxmi Narayan Meena, a former State Bank of India employee from Jhunjhunu in Rajasthan, and Deepak Kumar. The police have named L.N. Meena, who allegedly forged more than 1,000 applications in the names of villagers in Jhunjhunu, as the prime accused in the case. Gautam was found to have made 1,800 fake applications. The EOW is also interrogating 18 others, whom Gautam named during the probe.

Police inquiries and independent media reports now show that a few property dealers in Delhi and Rajasthan also got loans approved in fictitious names from 12 different banks in Delhi with the help of a bank agent and a chartered accountant based in Chandigarh. A few officials in the Revenue Department allegedly helped them get fake PAN (Permanent Account Number) cards so as to apply for the flats.

In some cases the people in whose names the applications were made did not exist; in some others the addresses and mobile phone numbers were false. And some people who were allotted flats were even unaware of it.

The whiff of a scam came on October 31, when Udit Raj, president of the Indian Justice Party and chairman of the All India Confederation of S.C./S.T. Organisations, acting on information given by Deepak Kumar, filed a complaint at the Malviya Nagar police station accusing the DDA of mishandling the Scheduled Caste/Scheduled Tribe quota in the housing scheme. Of the total number of flats, 15 per cent goes to the S.Cs and 7.5 per cent to the S.Ts. He also complained against Suresh Kumar Meena, a property dealer, saying that he had created a fracas in his Indian Justice Party office in Delhi and threatened to kill him. Udit Raj said he had informed the police about the whole scam and Suresh Kumar Meena's involvement in it.

On November 5, Udit Raj filed a petition under the Right to Information Act, seeking information from the DDA Housing Commissioner about all the S.C./S.T. applicants. There has been no response from the DDA on this until now.

Five days later, Deepak Kumar lodged a complaint at the Pashchim Vihar police station about the scam. Again on December 2, Udit Raj sent letters to Asma Manzar, DDA Housing Commissioner, and Alok Kumar Verma, Joint Commissioner (Crime Branch), Delhi Police, citing the alleged nexus between the property dealers, DDA officials and financial agents in filing fake applications for houses. This time, on the basis of information given by Deepak Kumar, Udit Raj also named ICICI bank agent Manish, who worked in a Chandigarh-based chartered accountant firm, for his alleged involvement in the scam. He also urged the DDA not to conduct the draw as scheduled.

The Housing Commissioner wrote back to Udit Raj saying that the DDA's task was only to sell forms and any scam like this should be informed to either the Income Tax Department or the respective banks from which the alleged scammers had got loans sanctioned for the purpose. Despite all this, the DDA went ahead with the draw on December 16. The police, too, Udit Raj alleged, did not take notice of the complaint until early January.

After the draw, Udit Raj invoked the RTI Act again to get the details of the whole procedure from the time applications are submitted to the final allotment. He also wrote to the Commissioner (Personnel), Chief Vigilance Officer, and Financial Adviser (Housing) of the DDA to know the number of applications in the S.C./S.T. category and the number of final allottees. No information had been made available, he said.

According to Udit Raj, of the 900 successful allottees in the S.C. category, around 300 were from Rajasthan. "The EOW team in Jhunjhunu and Jodhpur found that seven persons in one family had been allotted houses. Most of them have not even come to Delhi and are really poor even to think of a flat here. However, what is worth taking into account is that some of their relatives are employees of the DDA. The EOW team in Bayana and Bharatpur [both in Rajasthan] also found that as many as 50 fake forms had been filled in with the names of people from one village," he said. He furnished more shocking information: The numbers, at random, of all the 144 waiting list allottees in the general category were between 1,77,668 and 1,79,186. This, it is assumed, is a clear lead to the apparent manipulation of the software in the draw. "The police have sent the DDA's computer for tests, but this happened only on January 9, almost a month after the draw," said Udit Raj. Three independent judges are present for the draw where application numbers are taken out from a box and matched with the corresponding name of the applicant in a computer. Many have raised suspicions that the software could have been programmed to show a particular result despite getting random application numbers from the lots. The lack of transparency in the internal functioning of the DDA has drawn a lot of flak.

But Asma Manzar said there was absolutely no possibility of any wrongdoing as far as the draw was concerned. "We can assure you that no demand letter would be issued to any undeserving candidate. We had made it clear earlier that verification of documents would be done after the draw is completed. Before the draw, we scrutinised the forms on the basis of photographs, addresses and PAN cards."

Nemo Dhar, DDA spokesperson, said that if anyone was found with fake documents, their allotment would be cancelled, the amount forfeited and an FIR registered against them. The case took an eerie twist on January 9 when Hari Singh Kohli, one of the successful applicants, was found dead in Bayana under mysterious circumstances. Kohli, as the Bharatpur Superintendent of Police Rohit Mahajan said, was one of the three people in Bharatpur the Delhi Police team had questioned.

That pressure seems to be rising on the authorities is clear from the fact that Union Minister of State for Urban Development Ajay Maken, under whose jurisdiction the DDA operates, has been constantly reassuring people about resolving the case. The High Court, too, has asked the DDA for an update on the steps it has taken with respect to the alleged scam.

Whistle-blower's arrest

Meanwhile, the arrest of Deepak Kumar on January 11 has caused outrage in some circles with the complainant, Udit Raj, questioning the need to arrest him when the police knew all along that he had been a part of the alleged racket and that is where his information came from. He said Deepak Kumar switched sides after gauging the degree and dimension of the scam. "This is a bid to punish him for speaking up. Deepak is a property dealer who was initially involved in the scam, but then he switched sides. Neither Deepak nor I ever kept this information away from the police. It is their inefficiency that the draw was allowed to happen on December 16. After this no citizen will ever come forward to confess something he has done in the past and thus help unravel rackets," he said.

But the police said they had incriminating evidence against him. "His name cropped up during the interrogation of Lakshmi Narayan Meena, the prime accused," said a police officer. The police said Deepak Kumar had five sets of PAN cards, apparently in different names but with the same photograph and other details.

Deepak Kumar's arrest has led to discussions in legal circles about the need of a "whistle-blower law" instead of an interim arrangement that is applicable at present to ensure the protection of the complainant. A government resolution in 2003 had authorised the Central Vigilance Commission (CVC) to act as the "designated agency" to receive written complaints of corruption or misuse of office and recommend appropriate action. It would also be the responsibility of the CVC not to disclose the identity of the complainant. This was in response to a public interest petition filed in the Supreme Court following the murder of Satyendra Dubey in 2003 after he exposed the misappropriation of funds and corruption in the Golden Quadrilateral highway project in Gaya, Bihar, in a letter to the Prime Minister's Office.

However, the jurisdiction of the CVC is restricted to any employee of the Central government or public sector companies. Obviously, Deepak Kumar cannot avail himself of this rather limited protection. In the DDA case, had the whistle-blower been a DDA employee, he/she could have got the protection of the law.

The concept of whistle-blower, which originated in the United Kingdom, too, applies essentially to an employee and not to an outsider. The whistle-blower law is more advanced in the United States where it applies not only to government servants but also to corporate employees in publicly traded companies.

While remanding Deepak Kumar to judicial custody until January 31, Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate Digvinay Singh said: "The accused cannot claim amnesty merely because he made complaints." The law recognises the possibility of someone trying to escape the consequences of his own complicity in a crime by turning into a complainant. But in order to be treated even as an approver, it is said, Deepak Kumar will first have to be listed as an accused.

Ram Vilas Paswan is our Prime Ministerial Candidate NDF will contest Parliament elections

New Delhi, Feb. 18, 2009

Dr. Udit Raj, Secretary General of National Dalit Front (NDF) said that Shri Ram Vilas Paswan is Prime Ministerial Candidate of NDF. The wind of change is blowing at global level, then why should it not be in India. The time has come now to have a Dalit Prime Minister in India. Barack Hussein Obama has become President of America. He belongs to not more than 10% US population and at the same time he is a black also. Majority of US white population voted him into President's seat, they did not do the charity to the blacks, rather the whites have tried to obliterate the blots of discrimination. Not only this, they sent feelers to the blacks that they should change their attitude and it will also give impetus to the development. Shri Ram Vilas Paswan possesses all qualities what a Prime Minister should have. Dalits in the country are feeling very strongly that a Dalit should become Prime Minister. Ever since National Dalit Front has been launched, tremendous response has been received. Apart from Indian Justice Party, Lok Janshakti Party, Republican Party of India, many other important political & social leaders and organizations have joined the front. Dalit Panthers of India (Tamilnadu), Puthia Tamilgham (Tamilnadu), Gondwana Gantantra Party (M.P.), Orissa Mukti Morcha, Bahujan Shakti Party (U.P. & Jharkhand), Dalit Sangharsha Samiti (Karnataka) and many others have joined. The NDF will field candidates in most of Lok Sabha constituencies and seat of sharing would be on the basis of strength of the party at the place and other allies will support. If this happens, as is planned, equation in the election will change, said Dr. Udit Raj. The NDF will contest elections on the basis of some common programmes like Reservation in private sector, allocation of budget according to population, reservation in Higher Judiciary and strict implementation of Prevention of SC/ST Atrocities Act, 1989. NDF will not tolerate any division of Dalits on the lines of caste which is being done by some dalit leaders. The social-cultural awareness among dalits and tribals is declining and it will be seen that it is not further deteriorated, rather all endeavors will be made to raise it. Dr. Udit Raj said that the Reservation Bill passed on 23rd December, 2008 in the Rajya Sabha has many deficiencies. The section-4 of the Bill must be deleted as it bars SC/STs to get promotion and recruitment in higher levels. The Bill has deficiency where clear cut punishment is not mentioned about those who violate the implementation of reservation. In June 1995, 77th Constitutional Amendment was made to make sure that promotion in reservation is given at all levels in all services and this must have been incorporated in the Bill but unfortunately, that is not the case. Dr. Udit Raj urged the government that Bill must be passed only when suggested amendments by us are incorporated. + + +

YOUTH FRONT FOR JUSTICE CELEBRATES VALENTINE'S DAY

New Delhi, Feb. 14, 2009

The Youth Front for Justice, youth wing of the Indian Justice Party, celebrated Valentine's Day on 14.2.2009 with great pomp and show under the presidentship of its National Chairman, Dr. Udit Raj. Thousands of men and women participated in the celebrations. The Valentine's Day celebrations were organized with a view to give a befitting reply to the opposition of Valentine's Day by organizations like Shri Ram Sena, Shiv Sena and Bajrang Dal.

On this occasion, Dr. Udit Raj, National Chairman of the Indian Justice Party said that Shri Ram Sena goons had beaten up some girls inside a pub as, according to them, enjoying drinks inside a pub by girls is against Indian culture. They have been fiercely opposing Valentine's Day celebrations and pubs. Dr. Udit Raj said that these groups were probably not aware of the true spirit of Indian culture. In the olden times, whisky was known as Som Ras, Arisht and Aasav and these drinks were enjoyed by people including women at social gatherings or in community halls. There is a mention of such pubs and shops in Buddhist and Jain scriptures. Shri Om Prakash, a former Professor of Delhi College in his book "Economy and Food in Ancient India" has given excerpts from Vedas, Puranas and other reputed Oriental texts which clearly establish that drinks were served at Pubs where women freely participated. There is, however, absolutely no mention in these scriptures about the beating of women who were found drinking in these pubs.

Ms Sarika Chohdhary, President of the Youth Front for Justice, said that Valentine's Day was a festival for the expression of one's love and feelings for another person. These celebrations are not limited to any particular community, place or country. She further said that Khajurao paintings are an Indian heritage and Kama Sutra is an integral part of this heritage. There is no mention in Indian history or culture that women who were expressing their love and feelings or those women enjoying their drinks in pubs should be beaten. In fact, organizations like Bajrang Dal and Shri Ram, Sena are denigrating the true spirit of Indian culture by indulging in their nefarious activities. The organizations which are opposing Valentine's Day celebrations are only perpetuating a feudal society so that exploitation of women may continue. Ms Sarika Choudhary said that we believe in the Constitution of India and condemn the backward views of these fanatical organizations. + + +

Two days' brain storming and leadership building programme on 7th and 8th March

After our rally of 2008, a good impact was made and as a result, the government had to pass Reservation Bill in the Rajya Sabha. However, there are certain deficiencies in the Bill and we are fighting for their removal. At the moment, we are facing serious crisis on social-cultural front. It is never late to check declining social-cultural movement. Not only this but also we have to give momentum so that our society is not only empowered politically but economically and socially also. Correct thoughts and ideas will make us leaders in politics, industries, market, education and in other important areas. Our struggle for reservation in private sector is to continue and we have to make it more effective. Discussion and meditation in the session will be to understand the mission in correct perspective. Please come with preparation so that your input can help us in arriving at some conclusion as to how to create alternative social-cultural movement.

We are holding two days' brain storming and leadership building programme on 7th and 8th March, 2009 (Saturday & Sunday), at 10 AM. sharp at Ambedkar Bhavan, Rani Jhansi Road, New Delhi. This is going to be very beneficial to all of us. Therefore, attend it with other committed and spirited leaders.

- Dr. Udit Raj, National
